Mollere Drive home trashed by vandals

BY DENA BISNETTE
Mollere Drive resident Lillie Burke has had to return from a Christmas trip to New Orleans, La., early but is unable to stay in her own house.
Vandals had visited her home while she was gone and caused so much damage that the clean-up could take weeks.
Burke said she was called home by a neighbor who had been feeding her three pets, a cat, a parrot and a dog, and had discovered the vandalism at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.
Waveland Police Department is working on the investigation while Burke and family members who had come to visit her Monday try to find salvagable items in the debris the vandals left.

She said police officers told her that the incident apparently involved two or more people who broke into the house through a back window that faces a wooded area.
The house had been checked at 4:30 p.m. the previous day and everything was fine, she was told.
"This is a quiet neighborhood. You certainly wouldn't expect something like this," said Burke, standing among four large plastic garbage cans in a kitchen that still had food smeared on its slashed linoleum floor.
Two refrigerators in the house were emptied. The food was smeared all over carpets, furniture

Burglary suspects arrested

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Three New Orleans residents were arrested in Bay St. Louis early Tuesday morning and charged with burglary and auto theft.
Bay St. Louis Police Officer Richard Hannah stopped the trio as they were traveling in a 1976 Dodge after the door flew open and several cartons of cigarettes flew out of the car at the intersection of US-90 and Main Street.
Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies David Sellier and Van

Fayard who were approaching the scene noted the doors on the Shell Service Station on US-90 had been broken into and offered assistance to Hannah.
Ophelia Brooks, 22, 2508 Pauger St.; Bobby Jay Holmes, 38, 2721 Brookshell St. and Eugene Irving, 30, of 54 Imperial Dr., all of New Orleans, were each arrested and charged with burglary and auto theft. The Dodge they had been traveling in had been reported stolen in New Orleans.

All three are currently being held under a $5,000 bond in the Hancock County Jail.

An arraignment was held Wednesday and a preliminary hearing is scheduled for Jan. 7 in City Court.

The trio will later face the auto theft charges in Louisiana where the car was stolen.

Police are also investigating nine burglaries which took place in Bay St. Louis between Christmas Day and Sunday.

Officers believe the suspects from New Orleans also may be involved in some of these nine incidents.

Circuit court officials recover $5,000 from state

BY DENA BISNETTE
By being first with their request, Hancock County court officials have recovered $5,000 from a bail bonding firm that recently went out of business.

That leaves only $5,000 for anybody else who may want to recover money from bonds defaulted on by All-State Bail Bonds of Gulfport and the firm's owner, Billy Joe Alred of Hernando, according to Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis.
Deputy Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler said the paperwork that resulted in the turnover of the $5,000 began in January 1986.

A Hancock County Circuit Judge's order on the matter was obtained in August and the State Insurance Commission granted its approval at a Sept. 11 hearing.
The letter accompanying the check was dated Dec. 29.

Metzler said Allread had forfeited on a single $5,000 bond in Hancock County, "but there's no telling how many he wrote over in Harrison County or other places."

Compretta explained that under Mississippi law, a bail bondsman need deposit only $10,000 with the State Insurance Commission, although the bonds he writes will exceed the $10,000 many times.

"That's why it was so important to be first. We had to get our money while it was still there," Compretta said.

The money was turned over to Circuit Clerk John Rutherford and will go back into the county's court system.

Compretta said the legislature is expected to look at the possibility of reforming state bail bonding laws in its January session.

There are presently two types of bondsmen—individuals whose only financial surety is $10,000 deposited with the State Insurance Commission, and insurance companies whose bonds are secured by the assets of the company.

Both types collect 10 percent of the total bond amount as a fee.

State Senator George Smith of Gulfport is expected to propose a bill that would increase the deposit to $50,000 as well as take a percentage of each bond for a fund that would be used to pay off any bonds forfeited when the person for whom they were written fails to appear in court.

District Attorney Cono Caranna's

office wants further reform. Presently, every criminal not accused of a capital crime with a possible death penalty is legally bondable in Mississippi.

Federal laws are different, allowing judges to set a very high bail or deny bail for criminal suspects who appear likely to flee or to become a danger to the community.

Caranna feels high bonds or denial of bonds are particularly appropriate for interstate drug traffickers and foreign suspects who may leave the country.

The district attorney's office has obtained high bail amounts for some suspected drug runners, but Caranna said most were later reduced by judges who felt failure to set a reasonable bond might result in reversal of convictions.

Bogus painters take Pearlington man's money

BY DENA BISNETTE
Two men posing as painters from Louisiana have taken $400 from an elderly Pearlington resident.

According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, the two men apparently contracted with the resident for painting and waterproofing on Dec. 27, accepted his money and then did not return to do any work.

Both are white men in their early 20s. One is described as looking 19 or 20 years old and being five feet, five inches tall and weighing about 130 pounds. The other is apparently about 22 years old and five feet, seven inches tall and 180 pounds. They are reportedly driving a blue pickup truck.

The receipt filled out for the Pearlington resident had the firm name McDonald Painting and Waterproofing and a Bayonne, La. address.

A sheriff's department clerk who attempted to call the telephone number listed said she got a "no connection" signal.

The specialties listed include repainting aluminum siding as well as painting and waterproofing roofs, walls and driveways.

BOND RECOVERY—Hancock County Circuit Court officials discuss the recovery of a $5,000 forfeited bond from a bail bonding company that has gone out of business. From left are Deputy Circuit Clerk Pam

Death in auto crash labeled suffocation

BY DENA RISNETTE
 A BaySide Park man who died in an automobile accident Friday apparently suffocated.

Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet said an autopsy performed Sunday on Carl Richard Malmstrom III, 19, showed that the man had a number of non-fatal injuries but died from being unable to breathe.

 The 1979 Monte Carlo Malmstrom was driving collidged with a tree on Diamondhead Drive East.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy George Burleson, who was present at the scene of the accident, had reported that when he arrived, Diamondhead Rescue personnel were trying to get the driver out of the car, which was lying on its left side.

Burleson said Malmstrom was on the front seat of the vehicle and his head was bent inward to his chest.

Stiglet declined comment on the circumstances of the suffocation, explaining that he had not been at the scene of the accident.

Mississippi livestock auction operators agree to suspension

WASHINGTON—Joe Smith, manager of Poplarville Stockyards Inc. has agreed to a federal order suspending him from the livestock marketing business for 28 days and ordering a $3,000 civil penalty.

The market draws trade from southern Alabama, eastern Louisiana and southern Mississippi. B.H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said Thurman Guillot, a former owner, agreed to a one-year suspension.

Jones said Smith and Guillot agreed to the penalties to settle federal administrative charges of buying livestock out of consignments for their own speculative dealer accounts, permitting their auctioneer, Tommy Bond to buy out of consignments for his dealer account, and failing to properly maintain the market's custodial account.

Bond agreed to a $2,000 penalty and an order barring him from the livestock marketing business for 14 days to settle his part of the case.

The market is now under new ownership. It will not be affected directly by the order except Smith or Bond may not perform their normal duties during the suspension period.

In agreeing to the penalties, they neither admitted nor denied the federal administrative charges filed by USDA under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

BEYOND THE SUNSET

Should you go first and we remain, to walk the road alone,
 We'll have a memories garden,
 Dear, with happy days we've known,
 In spring we'll wait for roses red;
 When faded, the lilacs blue,
 In early fall when brown leaves fall,
 We'll catch a glimpse of you.

Should you go first and we remain, for battles to be fought,
 Each thing you've touched along the way will be a hallowed spot.
 We'll hear your voice, we'll see your smile, though blindly we may grope,
 The memory of your helping hand will buoy us on with hope.

Should you go first and we remain, one thing we'd have you do:
 Walk slowly down that long, long path, for soon we'll follow you.
 We want to know each step you take, so we can take the same,
 For some day down that lonely road, you'll hear us call your name.

Bay city court cuts days, to begin earlier

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Beginning Wednesday the Bay St. Louis City Court will convene at 5 p.m. instead of the regular 8 p.m. time, according to Sandy Schafer, deputy court clerk.

Schafer said an increased case load makes the earlier start necessary.

During a single night of court as many as 115-120 traffic tickets, five to 20 warrants and numerous affidavits may have to be handled, she added.

The court currently meets every Wednesday night in the courtroom at the Hancock County Courthouse.

However, beginning in February, Schafer says, court will meet only on the first and third Wednesday's. All traffic related matters will be heard on the first Wednesday and affidavits, warrants and other matters will be heard on the third Wednesday.

The new schedule has been planned with the concurrence of city officials and court officers, including Judge John Chevis and City Prosecutor Henry Cook.

NSTL engineers honored by professional group

Three engineers at the National Space Technology Laboratories were recently named Fellows in the American Society of Civil Engineers. Jack Rogers of NASA, Marshall Jennings of the U.S. Geological Survey and Jim Bowie of Sverdrup Technology were among those to receive the highest level of membership in the national society.

Only eight percent of the society's more than 100,000 members achieve the title of Fellow. The three engineers were given the distinction for their technical achievements as professional engineers and for having completed 10 years in responsible charge of major engineering works.

Rogers, who heads NSTL's Facilities Engineering Office, has been employed by NASA since 1960 and has worked at NSTL for the past 21 years. The 1954 graduate of Ole Miss previously worked for the Army Corps of Engineers.

Jennings has been employed by USGS since 1961 and for the past 14 years has worked at NSTL. He currently works in the Office of Surface Water and holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas and Colorado State University. Earlier this year he was named Mississippi's Outstanding Civil Engineer by the state section of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Bowie, an Ole Miss graduate, manages the Engineering Design Section for Sverdrup. He has 36 years credited to his record as a civil engineer, 30 of which were earned while working for USGS. Prior to his present position he was employed by Computer Science Corp. for six years.

Currently, Bowie is president of the Mississippi Section of the national society.

and bedding. Closet doors were opened and squeeze-type containers of margarine emptied onto the clothes. Jars of spaghetti sauce, wine and jelly were thrown against walls.

Kitchen knives were scattered throughout the house, stabbed into furniture and picture frames and then carried upstairs. The broken glass was used to scratch the words "kill you" into walls.

Phones were ripped out of the walls and smashed, jacks and all. Bookshelves were emptied, other furniture was overturned and magazines were stuffed down toilets.

"The people who did this weren't weaklings," Burke said.

"That's for sure," her daughter Patty Ladner, visiting from Oklahoma, said. "It takes an awful lot of force to smash a phone."

"In some places they took a lot of trouble. They cut up potatoes before scattering them and they cut oranges in half before they smashed them under cushions," Burke added.

"Then there were places where they didn't even bother to open the jars and poured out whatever was inside before they broke them."

In one room, for example, anything on the wall was ripped down and broken. An original watercolor survived but its frame was completely destroyed. In another, the walls were not touched but the furniture was broken.

Plants were uprooted and dirt thrown around in several rooms but in another room a plant sat unmolested in an unbroken pot.

"I don't think they were here to steal," she said. "They smashed my camera and ripped up my checks, but a lot of really valuable stuff wasn't taken, just broken."

She gestured toward a microwave oven, which had not been touched.

Still-wrapped Christmas presents, regardless of what they contained, were smashed without being unwrapped to see what was inside.

"They used up an awful lot of energy."

Burke said she feels lucky because a lot of things that have real sentimental value to her weren't touched or will only need to be cleaned up. Some things, such as part of a stamp collection, are in the house but have simply not been found yet.

She said she wants other people to know what has happened to her in order that they can be aware that it could happen to anyone.

In addition, the vandals who attacked her house have not yet been found.

Burke said the incident has made her feel like her home has been violated.

"It's like they have invaded my privacy," she explained.

"It has even affected my pets. We found the parrot on top of the cage and I think that's what saved her after they let her out. She didn't talk until Tuesday. The cat was on the roof of a neighbor's house, terrified. She was nervous for a long time."

Burke is staying elsewhere while insurance representatives assess damage. Once she and her family have finished their salvaging, professional cleaners will be needed to handle the debris the vandals left behind.

No cost estimate on the damage is available yet.

This is the time of the year the Mississippi Conservation agents and Hancock County sheriff's office receives many complaints about hunters.

The complaints range from hunting on posted lands, shooting from highways and roadways, shooting from vehicles, running dogs across posted lands, shooting too close to residences, and others. The majority of hunters observe the law, yet there are just a few who try and get by with violations.

Many people enjoy hunting, and it is hoped that everyone will obey all of the laws and respect the property of others.

Several area parents gave their children BB guns and other types of air rifles for Christmas. Just this week there was a young boy shooting a BB gun in the field behind my residence.

Parents should be aware of the fact that it is illegal to use any type of gun within the city limits of Bay St. Louis or Waveland. They should also be aware of the fact that many other areas of the county are bird sanctuaries, and no type of shooting is allowed.

Each year there are many people who are accidentally shot in the eye with a BB gun or air rifle and lose sight in the eye.

There are parents who purchase these types of weapons for their children and give them proper supervision in the use of them, this is good. On the other hand, there are a few parents who do not give proper supervision to children in the use of weapons.

We want everyone to enjoy themselves, yet be careful in doing it.

As Hancock County approaches 1987, the residents have three big projects on the agenda.

One will be the opening of the Hancock Medical Center in several months.

We know many folks have worked hard to bring a new hospital to Hancock County and are looking forward to the opening of the new facility.

Another project will be the opening of the new Hancock County Justice Facility.

A new jail is something this county has needed for many years and a tremendous amount of work by a lot of folks went into making a new jail a reality.

The new jail should be open in a couple of months.

According to reports, wet weather has been delaying both projects.

And the third big project for Hancock County will be 1987 state and county elections.

M E C Mississippi Economic Council

GOALS FOR 1987

The word comes from the Bureau of Business and Economic Research at the University of Mississippi that during much of the past quarter century per capita income in Mississippi grew at a faster rate than it did in the rest of the nation.

As a result of this faster growth rate, Mississippi's per capita income rose from about 55 percent of the comparable national rate in 1960 to 65 percent in 1970 and to 71 percent in 1977.

Since 1977, however, reports the Bureau, the state's per capita income growth has slowed considerably, with Mississippi's per capita income declining to about 66 percent of the national average in 1985.

The challenge is for Mississippians to commit themselves to reversing that trend in 1987.

There are some decisions which can be made to help reverse the trend. Here are examples:

1. We can develop and take beginning steps to implement a statewide economic development plan, a plan being pursued by the Senate Finance Committee.

2. We can continue to meet our commitments to education reform.

3. We can adequately fund the state's institutions of higher learning.

4. We can adopt an accelerated highway construction program, with construction based on priorities of economic development needs.

5. We can demonstrate our commitment to a favorable business climate by adopting tort reform legislation.

These are worthy goals for Mississippi and for Mississippians for 1987. And, they can help reverse recent economic trends.

May this be the year of a lasting peace for the world and its people and may all people find it in their hearts to keep this peace.

Gov. Bill Allain

MANUFACTURERS' GROUP CONDUCTS ISSUE SURVEY

The November issue of the Mississippi Manufacturers Association Reporter includes a poll of state industrial firms regarding issues likely to come before the 1987 Legislature. Included in their findings are several very interesting opinions by these firms, which represent many small businesses in Mississippi. Small businesses are important to Mississippi because they created more than 90 percent of the new jobs created in our state in the past year.

According to the Reporter, 97 percent of their respondents favored additional consolidation and reduction of state government before raising taxes. Also, 93 percent said government costs should be reduced before raising taxes.

Only 13 percent said they favored raising taxes to support the current public school system, and 80 percent favored reorganization of districts, possibly even mergers, before raising taxes. Some 37 percent favored a tax increase to provide teacher pay raises while only 8 percent favored a tax increase for other public employees.

In higher education, 77 percent favored reorganization, possibly merger of junior college districts, before raising taxes; and 60 percent favored placing the junior colleges under the State Board of Education or the College Board.

Some 90 percent endorsed reorganization, possibly merger of universities before raising taxes. Only 9 percent favored a tax increase to support the current university system.

In highways, 73 percent favored one statewide highway system, either under a Department of Transportation or under a commission appointed by the Governor, while only 23 percent favored continuing the present three-district system. And 77 percent said they favored reorganization of the present highway system before tax increases. Only 11 percent said they favored a tax increase to finance and expanded highway program under the current program.

I was pleased to see that 56 percent of the respondents favored revision of the constitution through amendments and 39 percent favored a constitutional convention to rewrite the document.

Other issues were also surveyed by the association, but I have given you a brief synopsis of the issues I thought you would be most interested in.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—The new federal income tax law very likely will make it impossible for the Mississippi Legislature to increase the state sales tax when it begins to search for new revenue to shore up financially crippled state services.

As most taxpayers already know, starting next year under the new income tax law, they will no longer be able to take credit on their tax returns for sales taxes they pay to the state.

Ironically, while Congress deleted the long-standing sales tax charge-off, it left standing the deduction for state income taxes. Some saw in that a long-range plan for the federal government to get into the sales tax field, which obviously would be a blow to the states.

Back in Mississippi, the burden of a 6 percent state sales tax is already considered to be as heavy as the nation's lowest income people can stand, since the state applies the tax across the board on food and most necessities of life.

In fact, for several years, Mississippi along with West Virginia has been at the top in percentage of income that goes for sales taxes. Now Mississippians are even going to lose that small relief of being able to charge off sales taxes on their income tax returns.

This situation has already become of interest to states now facing critical need for additional revenue, causing them to look at tax sources other than the sales tax.

One key fiscal leader in the Mississippi Legislature, Rep. Ed Perry of Oxford, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has become an outspoken advocate of an income tax hike as a major source for additional revenue, rather than the sales tax.

"I've sat through the budget hearings and I see the futility of it all—Medicaid, welfare, textbooks, junior colleges, higher education," Perry said, "there's no way to take the amount of revenue we now have and make it stretch."

Every one of these programs, the House Appropriations leader said, "must be viewed as a child which must be fed." Despite the fact 1987 is an election year, Perry added, "I don't think we can tell each child to wait a year while we go out and get re-elected."

Perry said that "we actually have not had any real tax increase in Mississippi since 1968 (when both sales tax and the income tax were increased), but some people would like to give you the idea that we have been raising taxes every year."

While the state sales tax has been raised from 5 to 6 percent in the last 18 years, he pointed out that it was specifically for teacher pay raises and the new education program. "Meantime, we exempted utilities and prescription drugs," he said.

The income tax reduction in 1979, Perry added, "actually means that people are paying less taxes than they were 18 years ago." That income tax cut, done in an election year, "has been more devastating to state revenue than anyone estimated back then...we just had no idea how much it would take out of the state treasury."

Perry said the Mississippi corporate income tax "has always been much lower than other states around us, so I don't think we have been running off industry."

The veteran lawmaker has apparently made a sharp break with his longtime colleague, Rep. H.L. Sonny Merideth of Greenville, the House Ways and Means chairman, over the way to deal with the state's on-going budget crunch.

While Merideth opposes additional taxation as a solution, Perry said "when you look at the state's demographics, it is apparent that we're going to have to pay a little more proportionately if we want to compete. I believe we have to make some sacrifices."

This makes it all the more apparent the showdown on an election year tax hike is coming in the House, and the battle could see a sharp split in the ranks of the fiscal leadership. Sen. Nevin Sledge of Cleveland, has introduced the tax mechanism to restore the massive 1979 income tax cuts and recoup an estimated $135-$150 million in additional revenue.

But Sen. Bob Montgomery, the Senate Finance chairman, who has favored an income tax increase, will evidently hold to his promise that he won't stick his neck out on a tax bill until one is initiated on the House side.

Hopefully, the old cat-and-mouse game isn't going to dominate the upcoming session.

Elderly should beware of winter weather

Accidental hypothermia and cold winter weather pose potential dangers to older Mississippians.

To help elderly persons remain warm and healthy this winter, the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA) of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs is offering some safety tips on how to avoid becoming the victim of hypothermia.

"We want to help protect our elderly citizens from potential problems," said MCOA Director Dr. David K. Brown. "We often don't associate overexposure to cold with staying in our own homes, but many older persons can be subject to serious health problems within their own homes."

Hypothermia, the medical term to describe a condition of low body temperature, is serious and can cause death. Most people think of hypothermia in relation to persons trapped on snowy mountain slopes or individuals who are submerged in icy rivers, but older men and women sitting in their own homes are also at risk of physical harm from exposure to cold, he added.

Persons with certain medical conditions such as arthritis, stroke, diabetes, head injuries and alcoholism are even more at risk because these conditions may interfere with the production and retention of body heat.

"Accidental hypothermia occurs when individuals are exposed to cold and lose body heat faster than it is replaced," Brown said. "Older persons are more susceptible to developing hypothermia because of their bodies' decreasing ability to regulate responses to changing temperatures. Some victims say they don't even feel chilly."

Symptoms of hypothermia include confusion, difficulty speaking, shivering, slow breathing, cold and stiff muscles, puffy face, cool or cold skin, pale skin with large, irregular blue or pink spots and trembling on one side of the body or in one arm or leg.

"If you suspect someone has hypothermia, call for medical assistance immediately, and keep the victim warm by covering him or her with a blanket or extra clothes and turning up the heat," Brown said. "Keep the head covered, and treat the victim gently to minimize shock to the heart."

MCOA offered the following guidelines to help ensure elderly persons' good health in cold times. They include:

Dressing appropriately — wear several layers of loose, warm clothing rather than one heavy layer. Wear hats, caps and scarves outdoors and inside the house, as well. Half of a person's body heat can be lost from the head and neck.

Use an electric blanket or extra regular blankets, and wear socks for bedtime warmth. Wear mittens instead of gloves because they're warmer. Also, pull shades and close blinds and drapes to keep the house warmer at night.

Eating a proper diet — a proper diet should be centered around the four basic food groups. Stock a variety of canned goods and dried and ready-to-eat foods for those really cold days when weather keeps you indoors. Local area agencies on aging also can provide meals to home-bound elderly individuals or transportation to a food fellowship site where hot meals are served daily.

Heating your home — try to maintain a temperature of 70 F in the rooms where the most time is spent. Persons with physical disabilities, chronic arthritis, stroke or diabetes or other conditions that impair the body's heat production, should be especially careful to keep homes sufficiently warm.

Exercising — moderate exercise is good for the body and helps prevent hypothermia because it produces body heat.

Preventing home accidents and keeping in touch with family, friends and neighbors also can help ensure that any symptoms of hypothermia are immediately recognized and treated.

For more information on hypothermia and other subjects relating to the elderly, write the Mississippi Council on Aging, 301 W. Pearl Street, Jackson, 39202-3050 or phone 948-5413.

MAE takes legislative issues to public

The idea of teachers and their communities working together to accomplish mutual goals is not a new one.

The Mississippi Association of Educators (MAE) and its 162 local affiliates are revitalizing this idea by taking key issues in MAE's 1987 Legislative Program to the public.

At its Dec. 6 Issues Conferences, held in Oxford, Jackson and Hattiesburg, MAE unveiled a legislative community awareness project called "Educators and Community Involvement." The project targets three specific areas: appropriations for textbooks, teachers salaries and evaluation.

MAE is asking the Legislature to increase textbook funding to $20 per student, and to allocate $300 per teacher to purchase instructional materials.

The salary and evaluation points of the program are simply to bring teachers' salaries up to the contiguous states' average and to have evaluations developed at the local school district level.

Speakers bureaus are being set up in the 162 local affiliates where social, civic, religious and fraternal organizations can request information on the three targeted areas.

The main thrusts of the project are to create a more informed community, correct wrong information, increase MAE's support base for education; and, ultimately, elect politicians who support public education.

For further information community groups are asked to contact MAE local affiliates directly or contact MAE at 775 North State Street, Jackson, MS 39202-3086 or call 354-4463.

Farm Bureau supports sales tax

A sales tax levied on consumers based on their purchasing volume is the fairest way of supporting local government, according to delegates who adopted annual policies recently at the 66th annual meeting of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation.

The farm group expressed a need to push for new sales tax legislation in order to lower ad valorem tax levels now levied on property owners.

Explaining the farm organization action, Hugh Arant, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, described the ad valorem tax structure of Mississippi as unfair.

He said it is a tax on the wealth of those who have made decisions to invest in real property, and with farmers the investment is an essential cost item.

"Ad valorem taxes put the biggest tax load on property owners for the support of government services at the county level—a disproportionate tax distribution," Arant added.

AAA members divided on gas tax increase

JACKSON—Mississippi AAA members are evenly divided when asked whether or not they favor an increase in gasoline taxes to be earmarked for highway construction or maintenance, AAA reports.

A survey conducted in November by the motor club showed that 45.9 percent of the respondents favored a gasoline tax increase for highway construction and maintenance, while 45.1 percent were opposed.

In a related question asked whether or not increased gasoline tax should be used for purposes other than highways, 55.8 percent were opposed.

When asked to rate the condition of Mississippi highways, 52 percent said they were only "fair," compared with 33 percent rating them as "good." Fourteen percent rated state roads as being in "poor" condition.

Other portions of the survey showed that Mississippi drivers favor a State Highway Department under the governor as opposed to the present commissioner system by a vote of 57 percent to 43 percent.

Sixty-one percent of the motor club members responding would favor a law requiring annual drivers license re-examination for the elderly and 78 percent were in favor of increasing the speed limit on Interstate and limited access highways, the majority opting for 65 mph as their preference.

Eighty-two percent of AAA members agreed that use of seat belts in motor vehicles help reduce fatalities and injuries, with 61 percent favoring a law requiring seat belt use in Mississippi.

"The big surprise," said Don Littlefield, general manager of AAA Mississippi, "was how outspoken our members were on truck issues. The survey results show that over 90 percent favor greater enforcement of, and stiffer penalties for, violation of truck weight limit laws, truck covered-load laws, and truck licensing/inspection laws."

Sixty-five percent of our members report that their automobiles have been damaged by debris from uncovered trucks within the last two years," Littlefield said.

While the survey results show that the majority of those polled feel that Mississippi's drunk driving laws are good, 75 percent also favored the use of random police sobriety checks (road blocks) to help catch drunk drivers.

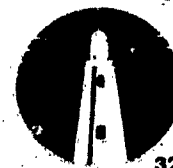

The American Automobile Association is a federation of 27 million motorists, operating from over 1,000 club and branch offices throughout the United States and Canada. AAA Mississippi's survey was mailed to 13,000 members in October and November.

Eggnog adds spice to holidays

Eggnog is one holiday treat that has been a tradition for many years. During most of the year, eggnog disappears from the grocers' dairy case. Commercial dairies usually make and sell eggnog only for the winter holidays.

During December you've seen eggnog in most any grocery store you shop. It's a rich and creamy drink especially good for holiday festivities. Various types of eggnog are available.

You may find it in cartons in the dairy case, or in cans—ready to drink. Or you may even choose the eggnog crystals. Just reconstitute the crystals, and the drink is prepared and ready to serve.

You can also take your choice between regular eggnog or lowfat eggnog. With the lowfat eggnogs, you can save a few calories; but that eggnog, too, is a very rich drink. It's such a delicious drink that you may not mind sacrificing a few calories to enjoy its goodness.

Eggnog is not only delicious but also nutritious. Made with eggs and milk, it is quite a protein drink and also provides many of the needed vitamins and minerals.

And here's an idea that adds Vitamin C to the eggnog along with another flavor appeal—make orange eggnog. Just add one 6-ounce can of frozen orange juice concentrate (thawed) and 2 cups of milk to 2 cups of the dairy eggnog.

Then you have a quick, simple and tempting breakfast for your family. To add color and flavor to the drink, Here's wishing a Happy New Year to one and all - and I hope that your Christmas was as wonderfully joyous as mine!

Ours was a family get-together in Mandeville, with the two oldest grandsons arriving home from college in South Carolina late Christmas Eve afternoon, and assembling with their four younger cousins and their elders, and the eldest of all - yours truly!

We wound a path between the homes of my two sons and their families, now at one place, now at the other, all through the holiday time, feasting, laughing, reminiscing, remembering the loved ones not with us, as we all do at this time of year.

From the youngest nine-year-old-in-December grandson to me, the matriarch or whatever of the family, we gloried in Christmas together, and hoped for many more to come.

My Yuletide wish for all families is that they may enjoy each other and love each other as we do in our family; there is no more blessed gift on earth, is there?

May you enjoy a Happy New Year. If you haven't cooked the black-eyed peas for luck in the year, "Not to worry," as one of my grandsons says - just open up a can of the peas, jazz them up with hot pepper sauce and so on - but, eat at least one to ensure good luck in 1987 - and don't forget the cabbage, as well!

And, for a grand salute to the old and the new year, why not brew up that favorite of earlier days and today - Cafe Brulot?

A favorite of the old Creoles of New Orleans, Cafe Brulot, or Cafe Diabolique (Devil) as many still call it, is quite a concoction, well-laced with brandy, cinnamon and other spices, orange and lemon peel, and set afire to throw dancing shadows on the walls - that's showmanship. So, here's a recipe from famed Antoine's Restaurant in New Orleans:

CAFE BRULOT
1 one-inch stick cinnamon
8 whole cloves
Peel of one lemon, cut thin
3 cubes sugar
3 jiggers brandy
3 cups strong black coffee

In brulot bowl or chafing dish, place cinnamon, cloves, sugar, lemon peel. Put brandy into ladle, ignite and pour over ingredients in bowl. Keep ladling brandy over the ingredients until the sugar is dissolved, then gradually add the coffee and continue ladling the mixture until the flames die down. Serve at once. (8 demi tasse or brulot cups).

Brennan's in New Orleans adds orange peel and a couple of ounces of curacao; others have their variations.

As for me, I shall have a glass of David McGuire's egg nog (see last week's recipe). Like the late "count" Arnaud of Arnaud's restaurant in New Orleans, I like my Satan-strong, Devil-hot coffee, and also my brandy, but separately, not together!

ETV Briefs

WOMEN LAWMAKERS

The four state representatives in the Mississippi legislature who are women are Ruth Campbell's guests on the next edition of "Faces" at 10:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 1, on Mississippi ETV. The program is scheduled for rebroadcast at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 4.

The four are Alyce Griffin Clarke of Jackson; Frances Savage of Brandon; Mary Ann Stevens of West; and Margaret "Wootsie" Tate of Piquette. They talk about issues that will be facing the legislature when the next session begins this month.

Some of the topics they mention include funding of state agencies, universities and the highways; merit pay for teachers; the need for a stronger tax base in Mississippi; "risk money" to encourage development of new businesses; and proposals to change the structure of the Mississippi House of Representatives.

you might wish to mix cranberry juice with the nog.

If you want to serve a warm beverage to family and friends, try chocolate eggnog. Add 2 cups of milk and ½ cup chocolate syrup to 1 quart of eggnog. Heat in a saucepan. Pour into cups and serve. For an extra special touch, top the individual servings of eggnog with whipped cream and chocolate shavings.

Do you always think of eggnog as a beverage? It is, but doesn't have to stay that way!

Eggnog is a natural for sauces. In fact, you can use eggnog as a sauce all by itself. Heat and then pour it over a steamed pudding, or use it to add a touch of richness over prunes, peaches or apricots. The eggnog flavor blends in well with many foods.

Another quick and easy snack idea for children is frozen eggnog. Freeze cubes of eggnog on sticks in an ice tray. It won't be only children, however, that succumb to this tempting treat.

There are so many more ways that you can use eggnog, and now is the time to do it while so much is available in the stores. Of course, if you are adventuresome, you can make your own eggnog any time of the year. But since you probably won't, plan to pick up a carton or two on your next trip to the grocery store.

It's good for New Year's Eve. So, ring out the old and ring in the new with eggnog.

NOTICE TO MOTOR VEHICLE OWNERS

Legislative Enactment Requiring Odometer Disclosure on Transfer of Motor Vehicles

The Motor Vehicle Title Law was amended by the 1986 regular session of the legislature. Mississippi is now among the majority of states requiring the transferor of a motor vehicle to make an odometer disclosure statement. A new certificate of title issued by the State Tax Commission after January 1, 1987, will include the odometer reading as part of the required descriptive data identifying the motor vehicle for which the certificate of title was issued.

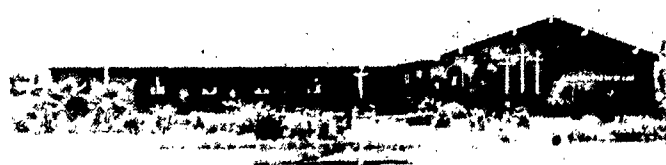

The changes in the law require:

1. The transferor of a motor vehicle to make an odometer disclosure statement either:
 - a. on a notarized bill of sale, including the odometer disclosure statement, "in a form approved by the State Tax Commission,"
 - b. on the previous certificate of title if there are provisions for odometer disclosure in the assignment and warranty of title by the transferor, if not then by notarized bill of sale, as described in 1 (a); and
 - c. For each transfer which has intervened since the previous certificate of title there shall be included as a supporting document a bill of sale in a form approved by the State Tax Commission including a completed odometer disclosure statement.

This office will be happy to assist those individuals selling or transferring a motor vehicle, in order to comply with this new legislation.

Sportsmanship Awards went to Robie Bourgeois, ponies; Ginger Ladner, 12 and under; Bubba Bennett, 13-17.

Most Outstanding Member Award went to Nancy Russ, and Outstanding Non-Rider went to Sharon Ladner.

A. Russ, president; Billy Wayne Ladner, vice president; JoAnn Odom, secretary; Sharon Ladner, treasurer; and Nancy Russ, AQHA secretary.

The Vanessa Ladner Memorial Trophy is presented annually to a pony rider who excels over all pony riders in the way he or she works with his or her pony in many different ways.

He or she is judged during the club's annual Vanessa Ladner Memorial Show. The judges are anonymous.

The late Vanessa Ladner could 'ride anyone's boots off any time she wanted,' according to Russ.

"She also loved all animals, especially horses, and you could tell this when you saw her ride her pony Rocko."

Vanessa died at the age of 10 with leukemia. A trophy was given to HCRC to present each year to a pony rider to keep for one year. He or she then gives it to the next pony rider recipient.

All recipients' names are engraved on the trophy.

Past winners of the trophy include Neal Ladner, '76; Travis Favre and Twyla Lee, '77; Becky Favre, '78; Bubba Bennett, '79; Debbie Bennett, '80; Tiffany Favre, '81; Kelly Ladner, '82; Carmen Cobb, '83; Shawntel Cuevas, '84; and Jodi Braxton, '85.

This year's recipient is Ginger Ladner.

All recipients receive a plaque to keep. All club youth also received a Christmas gift from the club.

After the supper and awards presentation there was a dance with music by Keith Hoda and The Country Sounds.

HCRC is a member of the South Mississippi Horse Show and Rodeo Association.

The association's show season starts March 14.

HCRC will stage its first show March 21 at the Kenny Ray Ladner Arena.

Anyone interested in joining the club may contact Russ at 533-7031.

SSC beats St. Martin in thriller, 38-37

For the second time in the last two ballgames, the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws found a way to win the game over a talented, well-coached team.

Last Thursday evening in the Rockchaw gym, SSC forged a 38-37 victory over a tough St. Martin ballclub. Many times during the game the score was tied, and several times St. Martin tried to gather momentum but were not permitted by the Rocks to taste victory.

It was the clutch free-throw shooting of guard YaSin Shabazz which provided the margin of victory for the Rocks, as Shabazz coolly sank both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation with less than a minute to play in the game.

Coach Chuck Genin's Rockchaws are now 8-5, winning seven out of their last eight ballgames after a slow 1-4 start.

"I'm pleased with the first half of the season. We came on strong after a very slow start. Our players are now learning what we want them to do, and are performing well."

The Rockchaws are now third in their district, trailing George County and Hancock North Central. Both teams play SSC once more during the regular season.

"I still think that George County and HNC are the teams to beat," stated Coach Genin. "The second half of our season after the Christmas break is the most important, because we play the bulk of our district games during this time."

In commenting on the exciting SSC-St. Martin game last week, Coach Genin said, "We are now finding ways to beat good opponents. We now have the confidence that we can win the close games. Our last two wins (against Long Beach and St. Martin) have been by one point, and we've won our last four games by two points or less."

Leading the Rocks were Steve Montagnet with 12 points, YaSin Shabazz with 10 points, and Louis Schruft with 8 points. St. Martin's Tom Weldy led all scorers with 21 points.

After SSC went on top 38-37 on Shabazz's free throws, St. Martin had the last possession of the game. With less than a minute to go, the Yellow Jackets inbounded the ball and brought it across half-court to set up one last play.

Coach Mike Perkins of St. Martin took a look at the SSC defense and called a quick time out to call his last play. However, SSC appeared to have the Yellow Jackets fooled as they appeared in a different defense after the time out.

An errant pass by St. Martin, intended for Weldy, was intercepted by Louis Schruft and YaSin Shabazz as time expired.

In the preliminary Junior Varsity contest, Coach Jerry Spell's undefeated squad ran its record to 7-0 with a 53-47 decision over St. Martin.

Bert Dean led the Rocks with 18 points, followed by Freddie Wistrum with 13 points. St. Martin's Cassius Williams led all scorers with 21 points.

SSC exploded for 22 second quarter points to take a 32-26 advantage into the locker room at halftime. By the end of the third quarter the Rocks were on top 42-29, and avoided a late St. Martin rally to capture the win.

Both squads return to action Tuesday, January 6th, as they travel to Slidell to play Pope John Paul. Tipoff is set for 6:30 p.m. in the Junior Varsity contest, to be followed by the Varsity game.

SSC Freshman Team

crushes St. Martin, 59-28

The St. Stanislaus 9th Grade Team continued its unbeaten streak as they easily handled the St. Martin Yellow Jackets 59-28 in a basketball game held last Friday afternoon at St. Stanislaus.

The rocks blew the game wide open early in the contest, as two minutes into the second quarter SSC held a commanding 28-4 lead over a tall Yellow Jacket squad.

Ten Rockchaws scored points, as Coach Herring allowed his entire team to play. The starters saw action in the first, second, and part of the third quarter, leading their team to their eighth victory of the season.

Scoring was evenly spread among team members. Sean Sewell and Shannon Garrett had eight points each, while Greg Schruft followed with seven points. Leading all scorers was SSC's Mike Cromwell with 10 points, sinking four of six foul shots.

For St. Martin, the high scorer was John Seward with six points. Coach Greg Williams of St. Martin seemed to be disappointed with his starters, as early in the second quarter he let his second unit take over.

The Rockchaws held a 20-4 first quarter advantage, and outscored their opponents 14-6 in the second quarter to take a huge 34-10 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

In third quarter action, the Rocks added 14 points, as Sewell made six of his eight points early in the third quarter before Coach Herring began to substitute.

Leading the Rocks in the fourth quarter along with Cromwell was Thomas Lott who had five points.

The 9th Grade Rocks, 8-0, return to action after the Christmas holidays to play Long Beach Bearcats on Tuesday, Jan. 6, in a home game held at St. Stanislaus.

Tiger Soccer Team resumes play Jan. 5

The Bay High Tiger Soccer team will open the second half of its season at Tiger Stadium on Monday, Jan. 5.

The Tigers will face Hattiesburg with the Junior Varsity playing at 6 p.m. and the Varsity at 7:30 p.m.

At 7 p.m., a memorial presentation will be made to the parents of recently deceased team member Shaw Payne.

Team captains Doug Rhodes and Kevin Edwards invite the community to join the Tigers for an evening of exciting soccer.

No admission is charged and a fan from among those who register at the gate will be presented a Tiger Soccer sweatshirt during halftime of the Varsity match.

Tiger Soccer Booster Club president Tom Dembocki will draw the name of the winner who must be present.

Winter jig fishing tactics

One of the most valuable skills to have in the winter—whether you're down South or up North—is the ability to jig fish. But the scope of this column will focus on winter jigging in the southern portion of our country.

There really isn't much to jigging. It's vertical fishing and it's deep. But there are several keen insights that some pros offer here which may prove beneficial for you.

"The (jigging) spoon is a bait that you can catch a whole lot of bass with in a hurry," states Dave Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "It's probably one of the baits that you can catch a limit on faster than probably any other bait built, when conditions are right for it."

Wharton normally uses the jigging spoon along the edges of creek channels, or down in the creek itself. "Sometimes in winter," Wharton adds, "the bass will even move down into the bottom of a creek channel."

What type of spoon does Wharton favor? "I use a big chunk of lead or a Hopkins Shorty 75," the latter lure described by Wharton as "made of stainless steel that's about three inches long and about a half-inch wide and it's heavy as 3/4-ounce." Occasionally he "spices" it up with a bucktail.

Guido Hibdon, also a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Team, favors a couple of other lures for winter jigging. "We use a black jig with a No. 11 black frog on it or a Fat Gibson," adds Hibdon. He also notes that many anglers use a Lindy Little Joe downrigger, a chunk of lead put four or five feet ahead of a crank bait, which is then fished deep and slow. Hibdon also suggests using "plain little old crappie jigs, like an 1/8-ounce white crappie jig," and a Maribou crappie jig that's white with a little bit of red works well, too.

Have any questions you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot them down and mail them to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. Answers to your questions will appear in a future column.

TAKE CARE OF THE OUTDOORS

by Steve Winters

Although cold weather pretty well rid us of biting bugs, they always seem to be with us. But, if you're on a vacation in a warm climate or live where biting bugs are a year-round problem, these pesky critters have a way of making your time off less enjoyable.

The people who make Cater Insect Repellent offer these suggestions to keep biting bugs, especially mosquitoes, from spoiling your outdoor fun. They suggest you use a quality repellent and eliminate the breeding areas.

- Dump out pails, pans, or any open containers after a rain. Get rid of old tires, or pressure them, so they'll drain. Mosquito eggs must be in water to hatch, and these containers make ideal breeding grounds.
- Fill in drain areas where water stands: gutters, ditches, and low areas in your yard. Mosquitoes even like holes in trees that collect water.
- Before you go camping, repair any holes in your tent before you set out. These pesky critters are tiny — X-K — and only need a tiny hole to get to you. Be sure you check screens on your RV or pick-up camper.

Red Man/TNT All American Series comes to Biloxi.

$100,000, 4,000 horsepower, 600 cubic inches.

Those are just a few of the big numbers on display Jan. 2-4 when the nation's top truck and tractor pullers and their high powered machines compete at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

Among the wide variety of vehicles at this first stop in the 1987 Red Man/TNT All American Pulling Series are $100,000 dragster tractors with as many as three 600-cubic-inch, supercharged engines generating 4,000 horsepower. They are not the kind of tractors used to plow the "back forty."

"Pulling has the most powerful vehicles in motor sports," said Ed Hart of TNT, which will operate and/or sanction 50 pulls in the country's major indoor arenas this winter. "Anyone who doubts that this is a legitimate motor sport hasn't been to a pull. The engine-building technology and driver skill required to transfer all of that power to the ground is every bit as impressive as other forms of motor sports."

The three sessions in Biloxi, scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, will include modified two- and four-wheel-drive trucks and funny cars. Like the dragster tractors, these machines cannot be driven down Main Street.

"The variety of vehicles makes pulling an alternative for motor sports fans who seek something other than circle track or drag racing. We don't go 200 miles per hour, but a pull is easier to watch because each hook takes about a minute to complete and fans are close to the action," said Hart.

The object of a pull is to move a weight transfer machine, or sled, the length of a specially built dirt track measuring anywhere from 150 to 200 feet in length. As the vehicle moves down the track, a weight box moves forward on the sled. It eventually comes to rest on a skid plate contacting the ground for maximum pulling resistance.

If two or more vehicles in a class make a "full pull," they return to the starting line to pull again with more weight in the sled.

The competitors are vying for prize money at each event, and for points toward a share of the year-end, $150,000 points fund.

Also, part of the entertainment during the pulling competition in Biloxi features two popular monster trucks, Stomper and the Virginia Beach Beast, half truck and half tank.

"In addition to putting on a competitive motor sport, we like to entertain with other kinds of innovative vehicles," said Hart. "The car-crushing monster trucks are popular with all members of the family, especially the kids."

CHRIS HOLDORF of Florida will be among the two-wheel-drive truck pullers competing Jan. 2-4 in the Red Man/TNT All American Pulling Series event at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

New admission fees will be charged at some National Park System areas

ATLANTA—The cost of visiting some National Park System areas in the southeastern states and across the country will go up starting in February, the National Park Service reports.

Southeast Regional Director Bob Baker said the Park Service intends to increase existing entrance fees at six southeastern parks and to begin charging admission at 14 other locations in the region, which covers eight states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

"A new fee system was authorized by Congress in October in an effort to supplement the Park Service's annual budget," Baker said. "The money collected by raising fees will be pumped back into park resource protection, research, interpretation and maintenance programs related to resource management," he said.

Baker said the new entrance fees would range from $1 to $2 per person or $3 to $5 per vehicle, depending on the area. People who live near a park charging an entrance fee can purchase an annual pass of not more than $15, entitling them to unlimited visits to that particular park.

Baker also said that the cost of a Golden Eagle Passport, good for admission to any park in the nation, would increase from $10 to $25 a year.

"With more parks charging entrance fees, the Golden Eagle Passport now becomes a better bargain for people who plan to visit several parks throughout the year," Baker said. "It also will be honored at a limited number of national wildlife refuges that will begin charging entrance fees in 1987."

Golden Age and Golden Access Passports are available free to senior citizens and the handicapped. Baker emphasized that only some National Park System areas will charge entrance fees.

"Some parks are exempt by law from charging fees and in others it would be impractical to try to collect them," he said. "In the southeast, 33 of the 53 national park areas will remain free to all visitors."

Here is a list of fees for parks in the Park Service's southeast region:

—Canaveral National Seashore, new entrance fee $3 per vehicle or $1 per person.

—Castillo de San Marcos National Monument, increase entrance fee from 50 cents to $1 per person.

STUCK FOR A GIFT? GO FISH!

If you're stuck on finding just the right gift for your favorite person, why not visit the fishing tackle department in your favorite sporting goods store or marine dealership, suggest the fishing experts at Yamaha Outboards? Chances are your gift of fishing tackle or something for the boat would be greatly appreciated, far more than a new tie.

And even though Saturday morning TV pitchmen whip up youngsters' desires for the latest expensive doll or plaything, you'll probably find that for less money, you can get the youngster everything he or she needs to get started. And when you get a youngster started in fishing, you've given him something of value to last a lifetime. Instead of a toy that will quickly be discarded, you've given them something creative that will give them hours of enjoyment, and they'll probably spend less time with the TV.

Some think it should stay; others think it stinks. Whether you like it or not, the three-point field goal is in college basketball for 1986-87. And why not? Didn't most of us see it coming? We were the people shouting about the game being too slow. Remember B-O-R-I-N-G! This is just another cure for our belly aching according to the NCAA. Last year the NCAA adopted the shot clock in order to take the stall out of basketball. The result was that play became more direct but defenses sagged into the lane and offenses became perimeter-oriented. This year the NCAA is going to reward outside shooting teams and punish those defensive demons. Obviously, the reception the rule is receiving isn't thrilling. Most of the coaches are against it. And oddly, coaches on the NCAA rules committee that voted against it, can't figure out how it passed. It has already altered games this year. In early season tournaments, a last-second shot was attempted and made. The ref thought the shooter was outside the 3-point circle. He wasn't. And that team won by 1 point and welcomed the play. The pro game has the play, but their 3-point line is 23 feet away from the basket. College measures in at just under 20 feet. The pros are too far out while the college line is too close. Most highschoolers can shoot from the top of the key, with an adequate degree of accuracy. If we must have it, move it back; if it stays, college basketball is in real trouble. The game was not hurting from the shot clock. The games were still studies in strategy and execution. The three-point field goal does away with that and ushers in the age of the long ball. Good luck NCAA! You have done it now. © 1986, McNaught Synd.

Small producers of hazardous waste can now get technical help from MSU

The Mississippi State University chemistry department has been designated by the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control to provide technical assistance to small businesses that generate enough hazardous wastes to now be regulated by federal law.

Recent changes in United States Environmental Protection Agency regulations make it necessary for many small businesses to comply with guidelines concerning management and disposal of waste that can cause injury or death, or pollute or damage air, land and water.

Program coordinator Charles A. Waggoner said a $30,000 grant from the state bureau will permit the department to provide six major services to businesses. They include:

- Assistance in determining a business's status as a hazardous waste producer.
- Assistance in determining the character of waste being produced.
- Advice on any analytical testing required.
- Guidance on proper waste management techniques.
- Assistance in assembling an individual compliance policy.
- Guidance in reducing both the toxicity and volume of hazardous waste.

Waggoner said a toll-free number—1-800-222-1810, extension 3294—can be used by business owners and managers to request help in dealing with waste disposal problems.

He said there are two ways a waste may be brought into the federal regulatory system. The first is to be a listed waste; the second, a characteristic waste.

Explaining the first, he said waste is considered hazardous "if it appears on any one of four lists contained in the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act" that was amended by Congress in 1984.

"The regulations list more than 400 hazardous wastes, including those derived from manufacturing processes and discarded commercial chemical products," he said. "They have been listed because they either exhibit certain characteristics or contain any number of toxic constituents that have been shown to be harmful to health and the environment."

As for the second category, Waggoner said even if a waste does not appear on one of the EPA lists, it is still considered dangerous if it has one or more of the following characteristics:

- Easily combustible or flammable, such as paint waste, certain degreasers or other solvents.
- Dissolves metals or other materials, or burns skin. Examples are waste rust removers, waste acid or alkaline cleaning fluids and waste battery acids.

—Unstable or undergoes rapid or violent chemical reaction with water or other materials. Examples are cyanide plant wastes, waste bleaches and other waste oxidizers.

—Waste samples that are tested and show extraction procedure (EP) toxicity. Through testing, this waste would be found to contain high concentrations of heavy metals such as mercury, cadmium or lead, or specific pesticides that could be released into groundwater.

"With the toll-free number, we are only a phone call away for any business that has or thinks it has a problem with hazardous waste control," Waggoner said.

Test results used for instructional improvement in Pass schools

The results of standardized tests given Pass Christian Public School students last spring as part of a statewide testing program and the local district testing program indicate strengths and weaknesses in most of the areas tested—but the overall results continue to be favorable according to LeRoy Lizana, superintendent.

Pass Christian students in grades 3, 5, 8, and 11 were given the State Basic Skills Assessment Program (BSAP) test in April, 1986, along with approximately 147,000 other public school students. Since four forms of the test were administered throughout the state and the questions differed, a student, school, or the BSAP skills. The test results will be used to identify students' weaknesses on any of the BSAP skills and used as a basis for providing instructional intervention by the regular classroom teachers.

The BSAP results will also be used to provide student data to help district and school personnel identify instructional areas which require modification and revision as well as students who will require assistance in learning basic skills.

The Pass Christian BSAP student test results showing the average percent of correct answers in reading, mathematics and written communication in the district is as follows:

TESTS	3rd	5th	8th	11th	11th*
Mathematics	88%	72%	84%	76%	68%
Reading	93%	75%	80%	77%	78%
Writing	85%	73%	84%	86%	85%

school district "percentage correct" cannot be compared across test forms.

Beginning with the 1985-86 ninth grade class, all seniors must pass the functional literacy portion of the BSAP in order to graduate from high school. In addition, the school district will be required to teach the skills tested by the BSAP as well as plan some form of remediation where deficiencies are confirmed.

If the test results show strengths and weaknesses in student or class exercises, it will be necessary to modify instruction to meet students' needs.

Skills taught in the ongoing instructional program for grades 3, 5, 8 and 11 will be compared with the BSAP skills to ensure that the ongoing instructional program includes

The third grade students performed very well in all three instructional areas of the BSAP. On the total reading test, the students scored correctly 93.5 percent of the items. The highest attained percent correct was 98.6 percent in word recognition.

The lowest attained percent was 75.7 percent in predicting outcomes. The students scored 88.7 percent of the items correctly on the total mathematics test. The highest attained percent correct was 97.3 percent in using basic symbols.

The lowest attained percent correct was 76.1 percent in comparing calendar relationships. The students scored correctly 86.8 percent of the total written communication skills. The highest attained percent correct was 99.0 percent in correct spelling while the lowest attained percent correct was 73.9 percent in identifying pronouns.

Although no significant weak areas were indicated since all percent correct scores were above the 70th percentile, 12 was determined to be an important difference in the percent correct for the skills compared to the total test.

Using this determinant, district staff determined that the following areas were weak: Reading—predicting outcomes; mathematics—comparing calendar relationships; and, written communication—identifying pronouns and punctuating correctly.

Once such weak areas are identified, plans will be developed and implemented to overcome such weaknesses. According to Superintendent LeRoy Lizana, this is one example of how the district will use these scores for instructional improvement.

In grades 5 and 8 the average percent of correct answers on all three basic skills tests in both grades were above 70 percent. On the total reading test, the students in grade 5 scored correctly 75 percent of the items.

The highest attained percent was 96.5 percent in recognizing selected written words and the lowest attained score was 52.5 percent in interpreting materials and identifying main ideas.

The students scored 72 percent of the items correctly in mathematics. The highest was 95 percent in reading and writing numerals and the lowest was 32.2 percent in changing improper fractions to mixed numbers.

In writing, the students scored 73.4 percent of the items correctly. The highest was 94.9 percent in substituting pronouns for names and the lowest was 50 percent in making subjects and verbs agree in number.

The students in grade 8 scored correctly 80.8 percent of the items on the reading test. The highest attained percent correct was 91.4 percent in use of context clues to determine word meanings and the lowest was 66.9 percent on following written directions in printed, graphic and tabular materials.

The eighth grade students scored 84.6 percent of the items correctly in mathematics. The highest attained percent correct was 97 percent in adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing whole numbers. The lowest was 37.5 percent correct in solving word problems involving percent, using one or two operations. On the writing test, the eighth grade students scored 84.7 percent of the items correctly. The highest attained percent correct was 94.9 percent in using pronouns and antecedents that agree in number. The lowest percent correct was 55.1 percent in proofreading sentences.

In grade eleven, the average percent correct answers of all three basic skills tests were above 70 percent. Eleventh grade students scored correctly 77.8 percent of the basic skills items in reading, 77.0 percent in mathematics, and 86.5 percent in reading. The highest attained percent correct in reading was 90.4 percent in interpreting materials and the lowest was 58.3 percent in using dictionary skills to locate and define words. In mathematics, the highest attained percent of correct items was 89.7 percent in adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing whole numbers. The highest attained percent correct was 95.5 percent in using pronouns and antecedents that agree in number and the lowest was 51.3 percent in proofreading paragraphs. They scored correctly 78.6 percent of the functional literacy skills in reading, 68.5 percent in mathematics and 86.5 percent in written communication skills.

In addition to the BSAP, students in grades K-3 were given the Stanford Achievement Test for the first time. In the past, students in these grades were given the California Achievement Test.

The kindergarten students scored at grade level in reading and slightly below grade level in mathematics. First grade students scored at second grade level which is two months above grade level in reading, spelling and mathematics. Second grade students scored above grade level in spelling and mathematics, but slightly below grade level in reading.

Third grade students scored at or above grade level in spelling, language and mathematics, but below grade level in reading. Fourth grade students scored above grade level in reading, spelling, language and mathematics.

A study of the Stanford Test results in grades K-4 indicates areas of weaknesses in reading, vocabulary and comprehension, listening skills and areas of weakness in mathematical concepts and application in grades K-3. Students in grades 5-8 scored at or above grade level in spelling, language, and mathematics. Students in grades 5, 7, 8 scored slightly below grade level in reading and students in grade 6 scored above grade level in reading.

BSAP and test scores have been provided for parents of all children enrolled in the school. School officials urge parents to carefully study the test results and to contact their children's teachers, counselors, or principals for further information about the tests and individual test scores.

Concentrated efforts are being made this school year to improve student achievement in areas of weaknesses as identified by all test results. Administrators, supervisors, and teachers are using the test results to identify student, school, and district strengths and weaknesses. Each principal and supervisor has prepared goals and specific objectives for bringing about improvement in instruction, methods and procedures for achieving the specific objectives and appraisal methods for assessment of degree of accomplishment of goals.

Plans for instructional improvement also include an integrated program of writing instruction at all grade levels which include developmental scope and sequence in writing, as well as a battery of extended lesson plans to implement the system.

Implementation will entail incorporating reading and grammar into successively complex writing tasks. In grades K through 12, students will engage in extended activity projects that will involve them in writing and revising numerous drafts.

The drafting process will reflect reading tasks which will help focus the writing, and successive drafting by students will enable teachers to target instruction on grammar and where it is needed.

Other ongoing activities for improving instruction in the Pass Christian School District consists of the following:

1. Program for Effective Teaching (PET). This program is a teacher training program in the use of effective teaching skills.
2. School curriculum committees. The purpose of these committees is to make ongoing revisions of the curriculum and to continually propose changes to strengthen the skill areas of the curriculum.
3. Analysis of teacher-made tests. At the end of each grading period, the results of teacher-made tests are analyzed to determine weak areas and the results are used by the teachers to improve individual and group instruction.
4. Book Reports. More book reports are required at the junior high and high school levels.

The implementation of the foregoing programs in the Pass Christian School District has resulted in noticeable gains in student achievement. Continued gains in student achievement is expected as these programs are fully implemented. Revisions of the curriculum is an ongoing process. As other revisions in programs are instituted, student achievement is expected to continue to rise.

Adam, Major repeat on Lions All-State Band

Two Bay High Band members will be in the 1987 Mississippi Lions All-State Band as a result of preliminary and final tryouts which were held recently in Jackson.

The 125-piece All-State Band, which is sponsored by Lions Clubs of Mississippi, will travel to the international Lions convention in Taiwan in July and on the return trip stop in Hawaii to perform and tour for five days.

Craig Adam, trombone, has been selected for the band for the third time—and this year has the special honor of being first chair.

Adam is a senior at Bay High and currently serves as drum major of the Tiger Pride Marching Band. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Adam of Bay St. Louis.

Carl Major, percussion, has been selected for the band for the second time, and although only a sophomore at Bay High, has earned second chair in the Lions Band.

Major is drum captain of the Bay High Band and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Major of Waveland.

The Mississippi Lions All-State Band has won more international championships than any other school band in the world—and this year they will be trying for a fourth consecutive title.

The Lions Clubs of Mississippi will pay training expenses, food, and housing for the entire band and staff, but each student in the band will be responsible for raising $1,120 for this particular trip to cover air fare, uniforms and passport fees.

Many local Lions Clubs are helping subsidize their own community students who were selected for the band, but as the Bay-Waveland area has no active Lions Club, the two students will have to seek funds from other sources.

The Tiger Pride Band Boosters have pledged $1,500 toward the total $2,240 needed to sponsor the two students.

Local businesses and individuals who wish to make contributions may do so by mailing a check to: "Bay High Band Lions Fund," c/o Tiger Pride Band Boosters, 750 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis 39520.

BYRON LADNER

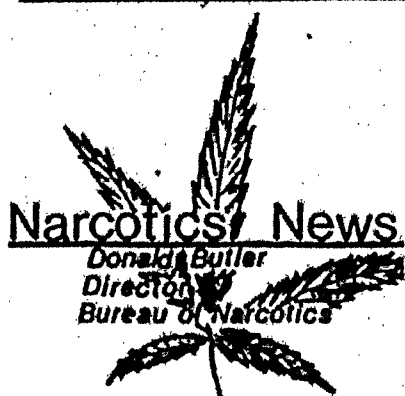

LINDA VON ANTZ

HEATHER GORDON

JIM CRAIG

Q: Why do young people begin taking drugs? (J.S. Braxton, MS)
A: Most studies indicate that young people initially start taking drugs due to peer pressure and the desire to belong and be part of the "in" crowd.

Another reason is curiosity - the human is a curious animal and likes to experiment with the unknown.

Therefore their drug abuse problem begins out of curiosity of wanting to know how drugs will affect them.

And some young people use drugs as an escapegoat - thinking that they will not have to deal with their problems as long as they are high.

Then there are those young people who use drugs as some form of punishment, whether it is directed towards themselves or their loved ones.

Q: What is "black tar"? Have any arrests been made involving this drug in Mississippi? (L.A. Flora, MS)

A: "Black tar" is a crudely processed heroin and commonly referred to as "tootsie roll," "gumball," or "goma."

It resembles roofing tar with its appearance being a dark brown to black sticky or hard substance.

"Black tar" originated in Mexico with average purity levels of 60 percent to 70 percent and some have been recorded as high as 93 percent.

The cost ranges from $100 to $1,000 per gram depending upon its purity and the area in which it is sold.

So far no arrests have been made by our agency involving this type of heroin.

At this time "black tar" seems to be more of a problem in the West, however, the presence of this drug has been confirmed in 23 states.

Q: Is it legal for my doctor, or any doctor for that matter, to prescribe amphetamines (diet pills) for weight loss? (A.L. Wiggins, MS)

A: No! The law expressly prohibits physicians from prescribing amphetamines merely for weight loss.

Amphetamines are of the stimulant family and are more commonly known as "uppers." They are generally recognized by the medical community as having very little medical value, except in rare instances.

It is documented that the best way to lose weight is by proper dieting and regular exercise - not by drug use.
